Increased screen time and modern lifestyle habits have led to a decline in sleep quality for many, impacting overall health and metabolism. The Adonis Lifestyle team has developed a supplement called Renew, designed to enhance metabolic function through improved sleep. This review explores Renew's ingredients, functionality, and potential benefits.

What is Renew?

Renew is a metabolic regeneration formula aimed at improving metabolic function by promoting deep sleep. The creators believe that optimal bodily functions—such as fat-burning, immune function, and brain activity—rely on deep sleep. Renew addresses issues stemming from modern stress and excessive technology use, which hinder quality sleep and metabolic health.

How Does Renew Work?

Renew is designed with sleep improvement as its primary goal. Poor sleep quality is linked to metabolic disorders, weight gain, and increased risk of obesity. Renew aims to regulate hunger hormones (ghrelin and leptin), improve metabolism, and reduce inflammation and oxidative stress, thus enhancing overall metabolic function and aiding weight management efforts.

Key Ingredients in Renew

1. L-Arginine (1,200 mg): A semi-essential amino acid that supports nitric oxide production, blood flow regulation, and cellular communication. It may also help cleanse ammonia, potentially improving sleep quality.

3. L-Theanine (200 mg): An amino acid that promotes relaxation by influencing neurotransmitters, potentially improving sleep quality.
4. Ashwagandha Root Extract (150 mg): An adaptogen known for stress relief, energy boosting, and concentration improvement. It may enhance sleep quality by promoting relaxation.
5. 5-Hydroxytryptophan (100 mg): A compound that aids in the production of serotonin and melatonin, regulating mood and sleep.
6. Melatonin (10 mg): A hormone that regulates the sleep-wake cycle, ensuring consistent, quality sleep.
